What is it about?

On National Future Day, school children in grades 5 to 7 are given the opportunity to spend a day gaining insights into the world of work. Typically, children accompany their parents or close family friends to their workplaces to experience everyday professional life. Unfortunately, this opportunity is often not available to children from socially disadvantaged backgrounds.

To address this issue, Life Science Cares Switzerland is seeking corporate partners within the life sciences industry, who are willing to offer placements on Future Day specifically for children from underprivileged families. This initiative aims to provide these young school children with meaningful exposure to the diverse and dynamic life sciences sector.

Who are we addressing?

Our program is aimed at students in grades 5 to 7 who come from socially disadvantaged families.

What are our objectives?

With our program we pursue three key objectives:

- Provide children from underprivileged families with exposure to the life sciences industry
- Promote social integration across different socio-economic backgrounds
- Identify and inspire potential future talents for the life science sector

What does the Corporate Partner need to do?

- Designing a full-day program for Future Day
- Supervising the children throughout the entire day
- Sending event materials to the participating children (provided by Life Science Cares)
- Coordinating the logistics of Future Day, with support from Life Science Cares

Why should you participate as a corporate partner?

- Charitable engagement
- Opportunities for employees to participate in social impact initiatives (volunteering)
- Translating corporate social responsibility into meaningful action
- Visibility of the charitable engagement across various digital communication channels
- Building a pool of future talents

Identify and address the target group

The children are selected according to our target group from existing programs run by our NGO partners or in coordination between Life Science Cares Switzerland and local schools.

Life Science Cares Switzerland will provide you, as a corporate partner, with a list of children who wish to participate in Future Day.
